SAVE 10% on all Dried Mealworms

Dried mealworms are a great source of protein without the wriggle! Our dried mealworms have been a real hit since we introduced them. They offer all the same fat and protein as their live equivalent but freeze-dried. They can be fed on their own or are ideal added to mixes. We recommend that they are soaked in water prior to feeding in the breeding season.

Insects are an unbeatable source of protein, fat and moisture which makes them a firm favourite of many species. Birds who particularly enjoy mealworms are Blackbirds, Sparrows, Robins, Tits, Dunnocks and Starlings.

Recommended feeders for dried and live mealworms

Caged Live food Feeder

Robins are not the only ones who have a taste for mealworms. When left for everyone to enjoy, mealworms can disappear in minutes. By using a caged feeder you can save the live food for the smaller birds. You can also feed seed from this feeder.

Observer Window Feeder

Made by Droll Yankee, the Observer Window Feeder holds onto the window with suction pads. You can watch the birds come and go from the comfort of your armchair.
